Fatum Heads Eligible List For Sergeant

James V. Simpson was second and Urban Healey third—Eight Passed Civil Service Test Monday Evening—List Sent to Police Board.

Missing one word in spelling in all that kept Policeman Frank H. Fatum from scoring 100 per cent in the examination held by the municipal civil service commission Monday evening at the city hall to prepare an eligible list from which the board of police commissioners may appoint a man to fill the vacancy of police sergeant caused by the resignation of William F. Hanley. Fatum's score was 99 1/2 per cent and he heads the eligible list. Policeman James V. Simpson is second with a percentage of 92 1/2 and Policeman Urban Healey, with a percentage of 84 1/2, is third.

Eight policemen were successful in passing the civil service test Monday evening. The board placed a time limit of three hours on the examination but the last man to complete his examination was through before the time limit had expired.

It took the civil service board two hours to go over all the examination papers and mark the percentages attained by those who took the examination, and it was 11 o'clock in the morning before the board had completed its work.

The others who passed the examination were:

James P. Martin, 83 per cent.

Raymond Van Buren, 75 1/2 per cent.

William J. Reardon, 75 per cent.

Frederick J. Fout, 75 per cent.

It will be seen that Policemen Reardon, Fout and Healey are tied for sixth place on the eligible list.

The eligible list has been filed with the police board, who will meet shortly to make an appointment.

The members of the municipal civil service commission are President Harry S. Watts, Commissioner James S. McAndrew and Commissioner Peter J. Crough.

KINGSTON BOYS AT N. Y. MILITARY ACADEMY

Edwin Messinger, president of the class of '24 at Kingston High School, is now a cadet at the New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-Hudson. Since his entrance last September he has progressed rapidly in athletic activities as well as in scholastic work. He played tackle on the N. Y. M. A. football team and was elected captain of the 1925 eleven. Shortly after his entrance, he was initiated into the Delta Sigma Nu fraternity. He made the varsity basketball team, playing center, and played in the games for the Prep School championships at Philadelphia in which N. Y. M. A. was the runner-up. "Cook" as he was popularly called at K. H. S., is now playing third base on the varsity baseball team. He is third in the senior ratings in scholastic work and he is "showing them how they do it in Kingston."

Messinger rooms with another boy from Kingston, Alfred Van Buren. Van Buren, by the way, is first in the ratings of the sophomore class and is sure to get the sophomore medal. Messinger expects to return to N. Y. M. A. next year.

Miss Sears Gets $150 Verdict

A verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $150 was returned in the supreme court Monday afternoon by the jury in the case brought by Margaret Sears of Lake Katrine against Abraham Braveman of High Falls. Miss Sears was injured when a Ford coupe of Guernsey Sahler and a car of the defendant came together on Hurley avenue near the entrance to the Suydam Farms. Miss Sears was injured and compelled to remain at home for several days. She sought recovery for her injuries and lost time. The accident took place in May, 1922.

Mr. Sahler, who was on his way to his home at Accord, also has brought an action in the supreme court to recover for negligence. Judge William D. Brinley, Jr., appeared for plaintiff and John W. Eckert for defendant.

Hermance Suits In Supreme Court

Damages Sought From Autoist Claimed To Be Responsible For Accident at Esopus Which Had Fatal Results.

In the supreme court today two actions brought by Louis R. Hermance and Mary L. Hermance his wife of Ulster Park to recover damages for negligence from Benjamin Seides and John A. DuBois were taken up for trial. Both actions were combined and tried together.

The actions grew out of a collision between the Highland-Kingston bus and a motor car on the highway between Esopus and Ulster Park on September 1, 1923, at which time Mrs. Hermance was badly injured. She was a passenger on the bus which collided with a tree following a collision with the passing car which sideswiped the bus and caused it to run off the road and into the tree.

On the day in question, two days prior to Labor Day, traffic was heavy, there were some 32 passengers in the bus at the time and several were injured, some fatally.

The bus was being operated by Fred Simpson, the regular driver of the bus at that time. After stopping for passengers at the entrance of Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary at Esopus, the bus had started on toward Kingston. Near the "S" turn just north of the entrance to Mt. St. Alphonsus the bus was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed, according to witnesses, when a Buick touring car without warning suddenly appeared to the left of the bus which was at the extreme right of the road. The Buick car attempted to pass on the turn and was confronted with traffic going south. The Buick car was pulled to the left of the road and struck the front wheel of the bus, causing it to run to the right of the road and into the ditch where it collided with a tree. The Buick car after running for a distance attached to the bus was freed and continued on its way without stopping.

Labor Day a watch was kept at the Highland ferry and the car of the defendant, Seides, was taken from line and he was questioned in regard to the matter. He was identified by the driver of the bus as the man who was operating the Buick car which struck him. He did not secure the number at the time of the accident but identified the car, it having a peculiar top as well as a white band about the spare tire on the rear.

The action was taken against Seides and Mr. DuBois, the owner of the bus.

Mr. Seides claims that he was not at the scene of the accident at the time but had passed there some time before and at the time the accident is said to have happened claims he was well past Kingston toward Hunter, his destination. His defense is an alibi. He denies that he was at or near the scene of the accident and that it was his car which caused the accident.

Judge James Jenkins and Floyd Powell appeared for the plaintiff. Judge Van Etten and A. J. Cook appeared for Mr. Seides and A. W. Lent of Highland for Mr. DuBois.

In court this morning Mrs. Hermance was examined. She testified that at the time of the accident she was in the act of taking money from her purse to pay her fare and did not see what happened. She was rendered unconscious and later came to and heard someone say "take her to the Kingston City Hospital." She was at the hospital for about three weeks under the care of Dr. F. A. Johnston and was then taken home where Dr. Ross attended her. She sustained severe injuries. Four ribs were broken, her nose was broken and she sustained internal injuries which have prevented her from doing her usual work.

Fred Simpson, the driver, identified Mr. Seides as the man who drove the car at the time of the accident. He pointed him out in court and described the Buick car.

A recess was taken at 12:30 until 2 o'clock, when the case will be resumed.

Steamer Albany in Commission.

The steamer Albany of the Highland Line, which has been lying at Southport dock across the Hudson river, since the close of her season last fall, left today for New York. The boat has been chartered for a few special trips and later will go on her regular run between New York and Albany.

Sign Language in Supreme Court

Troubles of Lawyers and Litigants Relieved by Resourceful Attorney Who Proves Master of Language of the Deaf—Suits Over $100.

An action which presents many difficulties not only to the clients but to the attorneys was taken up in the supreme court Monday afternoon. Edward E. Ragna has brought an action against Gause Beach of High Falls to recover a silo. He claims that a silo which is now in the possession of Mr. Beach is rightfully his property although Beach bought it at a sheriff's sale when Sheriff Kolts sold it to satisfy a judgment against one Cook who has agreed to buy the silo from Mr. Ragna.

So much for the troubles of the clients. The attorneys in the case also have their troubles. Mr. Ragna is deaf and consequently cannot hear the questions put by the attorneys. Here Frank W. Brooks, attorney for the plaintiff, came to the rescue with apt fingers. First asking the question so that Stenographer Murray could get it properly on the minutes and the Messrs. Van Etten and Cook, counsel for defendant, may also know what is said, the question was then put to the witness Ragna by Mr. Brooks through a rapid manipulation of his fingers in the sign language. Mr. Brooks is an expert in the sign language and during the afternoon rarely had to repeat the question. Mr. Ragna is spite of being deaf was able to answer in a fairly clear voice so that his answers were taken by the stenographer.

Ragna purchased a silo from a company, agreeing to pay for it in stated installments. The silo was delivered and before he had erected it the Christopher N. DeWitt farm in the town of Hurley was bought by a stranger from Long Island named Cook. Mr. Cook acquired a herd of cattle and also the silo. He agreed to pay Mr. Ragna for the silo and took it to his farm. Ragna claims he paid the installments on it and that he and Mr. Cook had an agreement that he would be repaid for money paid.

At that time Cook said he had no ready money but would have some soon. He failed to meet the payments and Ragna went to him and demanded money. Cook said he would have some in a few days. Mr. Ragna said he did not believe him and so stated, telling Cook that if payment was not made by a certain day he would take the silo. Cook told him to take it and said he would deliver it back to the Ragna farm in a few days for he had finished drawing in his corn. He failed to do it and Mr. Ragna says he arranged for a truck to get the silo. Ragna claims he never received a cent from Cook.

In the meantime Cook suddenly left for parts unknown, taking with him his effects in a car and trailer. He said he was headed for Florida. Behind him he left numerous unpaid bills. Various stock and property purchased from people were taken back, and when the sheriff went to levy on something to satisfy judgments he found little except the silo, which had not been erected. As this was evidently the only thing which was available, Sheriff Kolts seized and later sold it. The silo originally cost $415 and was sold to Mr. Beach for $200 and the proceeds applied on the judgment, which it failed to satisfy.

Mr. Ragna asks for damages on the ground that the silo was not and never had been the property of Mr. Cook and that it was on the Cook farm awaiting his getting it. He claims that bad roads prevented him from removing it prior to the sheriff's visit.

Mr. Beach contends that the silo was rightfully bought by him after the sale had been duly advertised and seeks to retain it and recover damages from plaintiff.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Ragna cannot hear and the sign language was used, the trial progressed rapidly. Some of the questions were written out and submitted to Ragna.

Frank W. Brooks appeared for plaintiff and Judge John G. Van Etten and Andrew J. Cook for defendant.

The action came to a close this morning when Frank W. Brooks, attorney for plaintiff, objected to the defendant proving damages. The matter was not decided and the jury was temporarily excused pending decision in the matter.

No testimony was put in as to the damages by the defendant, Beach. The jury was temporarily excused and the action brought by Louis Hermance and his wife against Benjamin Seides and John A. DuBois was brought up for trial. Two actions were brought and by consent they were tried together.

Another Lucretia Borgia Found

Victims' Bodies Placed in Zinc Cans and Properly Labelled—Charged With Killing Two Husbands, Son and 32 Suitors.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 19.—The world has produced another Lucretia Borgia, a counterpart if not a more remorseless woman than the Borgia who poisoned her husbands to advance in wealth and social position, is the opinion today of European police who are studying the strange case of Madame Renier at Berkerkul, Serbia.

The woman already has had her preliminary hearings on charges of killing two husbands, a son, aged ten, and thirty-two suitors, all with arsenic. Dispatches quote the woman as confessing the crimes and giving as her explanation:

"I put them out of the way because I was jealous that when they had tired of my love they would desert me for another woman."

The woman put the bodies of her victims in zinc cans, sealed and kept them in her cellar, the prosecution charged. On each can, the prosecution alleged, was the name and age of each victim and the number of days he was the woman's reputed suitor.

She killed her son, police said she confessed, because he had learned of the cans in the cellar and she was afraid he would tell the neighbors.

Legion Campaign Shows $12,000 Toward Goal

First Meeting of Workers Indicates Interest of Kingston People In Erecting Permanent, Suitable War Memorial—Executive Committee Secured Advance Subscriptions of $11,000—All Anxious to Gain Hill $35,000.

The team captains and workers of the American Legion Memorial Building campaign committee met Monday night at Campaign Headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. at 9 o'clock, and turned in the cash and pledges collected during their first day's work. While but few teams gave completed reports, the results were gratifying, indeed. As one solicitor said, "This is the easiest proposition I have ever sold. All you have to do is go around and get the money." Another solicitor said, "I have been canvassing all afternoon and evening, and never was refused a contribution once."

A complete report of the work done by each team will be made to night, when the teams will again meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 9 o'clock. The work of team organization has now been completed and by today the different teams were running smoothly and efficiently.

One canvasser related one interesting case. He said, "I went in to see one man, told him of my mission, and asked his contribution. He said he would think it over. I argued with him with no result. Some hours later he called me on the 'phone and said, 'Come back here and get $25. I would have given my shirt for these boys in 1918. I can't go back on the team now.'"

The following letter speaks for itself:

May 18, 1925.

Samuel M. Watts, Chairman, General Committee of American Legion Memorial Building Campaign.

The executive committee reports to your campaign committee cash and pledges, advance subscriptions, amounting to $11,000.

We expect to make a further report to your committee on cards still in the hands of members of the executive committee, which we have been as yet unable to clean up.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

JOHN D. SCHOONMAKER, Chairman.

Chairman Watts, after reading the above letter, announced that the total subscriptions to date amounted to $12,000, with many workers still to hear from.

Tonight will be announced the yards gained by each team to date on this great battle to capture Hill $35,000 by Saturday night.

All team captains and every worker is urged to come to the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 9 o'clock to get some fresh ammunition in the way of pep and enthusiasm by listening to the tales of gallantry under fire as told by these hard working team captains. Come and hear the story of how generously the people of Kingston are coming across for those who went across for them.

There will be news of great importance at headquarters tonight.

Simplicity Loses in Spring Styles

Gores, Godets, Darts, Panels, Flares, Etc., Are Latest Fashion Favorites.

There is a hairline distinction between mild revolution and emphatic evolution, and we are uncertain as to which term would be preferable in evaluating the spring styles of 1925, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. It is true that the new mode has not shaken the foundations of fashion—the smart women of 1925 do not appear to you to be radically different from their predecessors of last year. You will grant the differences in silhouette and details, perhaps, but you may be inclined to observe that the far-bruited spring style changes have been substantially tepid tempests.

Closer analysis, however, will prove the fallacy of the obvious. Save only the hat, which has successfully resisted all attempts to enlarge and grandelize it, the various components of the new mode mark essential departures from the themes of last year. The tubular silhouette, the wrap-around straight coat, the endless instances of youthful simplicity, have all joined the innumerable caravan, and even the ultraconservative lady cannot mourn their passing. Necklines, waistlines, sleeves and hemlines have all undergone decisive changes and if you add to this the final dethroning of the straight-line silhouette, the beginning of the new fashion cycle cannot be denied.

The first and most salient fact about the new spring styles, as disclosed by the Paris haute monie at social functions, is the unusual complication of cut that is evident in the smartest costumes. The reign of simplicity is definitely over and spring clothes are all cut up with gores, darts, flares, panels and the like. The chemise frock with its two seams, a hem and a cut-out oval for the neck, is nowhere to be seen. It is replaced by the apparently simple gown with a flaring skirt, which is intricately cut and makes use of all of the above-named technical devices of the master couturier. At this time it appears that the amateur seamstress with a length of goods, scissors, needle and thread, is going to have her difficulties before achieving a smart gown this season. Coats and houses have also left simplicity behind them.

End of the Simple Mode. In the first place, the simple straight-line silhouette is no longer featured by the really chic Parisienne. Almost all spring models have a flare somewhere, either in the skirt, the blouse or the sleeves, and sometimes in all three. True, you can still find straight lines, but there is a decided and definite intention on the part of Paris style creators to do away with them per se. Three silhouettes have taken the place of the tube—the silhouette with a flaring skirt, usually concentrated in front; the silhouette with a plant frock by small loose yokes of contrasting material over which are imposed collars in V-shape that tie in bows at the back of the neck; Premet uses small embroidered collars or collars of linen and pique on daytime costumes, and Worth employs the collar and scarf again and again on his choicest models.

Waistlines have shifted and are still shifting. Jean Patou, with his American, English and French mannequins, has demonstrated that the normal and near-normal waistline is flattering to most figures. He either shows the line definitely by means of belts on sports and street clothes, or indicates it by shaping the soft crepe of his afternoon and evening models to fit at these points. Premet uses a sliding waistline, high in front and very low in back—just a line that is marked by a movement of his side, circular or platted drape. Drecoll and Bernard place the line below the hips, and Chanel uses an irregular line that comes to normal in front and at the hips in back. Low waistlines are still affected by many Parisiennes and in most cases the line, irrespective of where it is placed, is made significant by a girle or trimming of some kind.

At the Hiplines. Hiplines, where the waistline is fairly normal, are the beginning point for inset panels, plaited or circular, floating panels, ruffles and godets. In short, they mark the starting of the flared skirt, which is the hallmark of chic this spring. On the blouse-waist silhouette, the hipline is the dividing point between the full upper portion and the straight skirt.

Hemlines are often irregular and the newest line is slightly higher in front than in back. Lelong, Premet and Chanel show such lines and so does Worth. Scalloped and pointed hems are considered smart and floating panels longer than the skirt give variety.

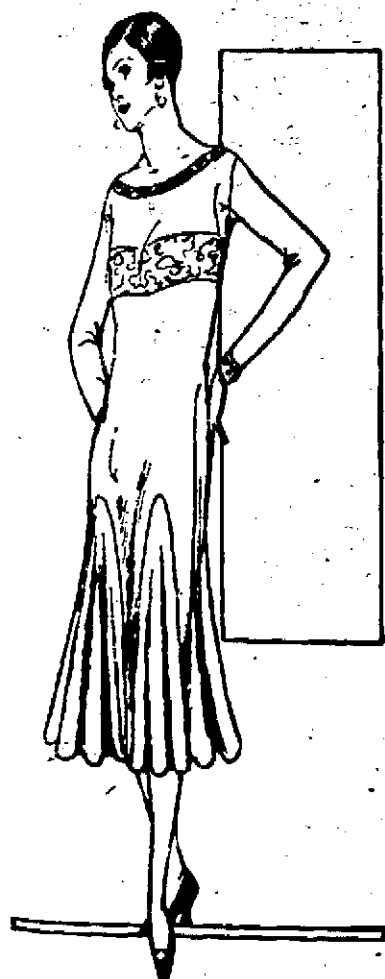

Madeleine Vionnet is curving the silhouette inward above the hips and out below, and she is making rayed bodices, coming to a point on the right hips, the rays being indicated by star-pointed tucks, lines of hem-stitching and with tiny bands of lace.

The Gentle Art of Knitting.

For practical purposes nothing has ever taken the place of a costume of fine yarn, knitted or crocheted by hand to give it that suppleness and pliability only attained by the work of individual fingers. Light in weight and providing sufficient warmth, it has always been comfortable, and now that it is sanctioned by the mode, the sweater, and its newest version, the jumper, no longer trail at the end of the line, but march well in the ranks.

From Cannes comes word that practically every woman of note has appeared in the little two-piece bathing-suit model designed originally by Chanel, which has been the inspiration of similar costumes differing only in slight details.

For every sports purpose there is an appropriate sweater in the spring mode. Varying from the lace short-sleeved model, hand-knitted or crocheted on large needles and worn over the simple frock of crepe de chine, to the mannish suits composed of a tailored coat and the Chanel skirt with its inverted plait fashioned of yarn to the smartest mixtures, they provide a suitable costume for every climatic change and one that does not lack in the essentials of chic and charm. An unusual model, which will undoubtedly achieve a late spring and summer vogue, shows clearly the influence of certain style tendencies brought to America by the prince of Wales on his visit last fall. Surprising as it may seem, the imperious given to fashion by the sartorial taste of the prince affected feminine modes quite as much as masculine, and tangible evidence of this is given by the introduction this spring of a hand-knitted sweater-coat, double-breasted in effect, with tiny plaits at the sides to accentuate a natural waistline, and fastenings of velvet ball buttons. It is decidedly smart and reminiscent of the double-breasted coat which was the favorite coat of the royal visitor.

real blouse waist and scant skirt, and the silhouette with exaggerated sleeves breaking the straight line. All sorts of scarfs, floating panels and similar frills aid in the elimination of the box-like outlines of the last few seasons. The big four lines of fashion—the neckline, the waistline, the hipline and the hemline—obviously play an essential part in this changed silhouette. Necklines are usually decorated by collar, scarfs and big bow ties, particularly on daytime frocks. On evening gowns jeweled bands, beaded fabric bodices and diaphanous scarfs, varying from mere wisps of tulle or chiffon to wide-waisted full-length veils, make for a flowing, graceful line which is the keynote to the chic spring silhouette. Chanel has very few models with plain, unadorned necks. Lingerie is being collared and beaded on many of her recent models; Jean Patou makes clever use of scarfs, jewels of a new type, and of collars to change the neck-line; Jimmy gives character to her sim-

A GIRL with lots of pretty handkerchiefs to match her party frocks always feels well dressed. One girl we know has a handkerchief for every dress. She makes them herself, with scraps of the dress material and pieces of net or ribbon for the band. She uses bits of chiffon or tulle for flowers which she glues on to the bands. So as not to stain the delicate fabric she lets the best quality of liquid glue become partially dry before she applies it. When it is almost dry, just a mere touch of the glue to the petals is all that is necessary. Any girl can make handkerchiefs by this method.

How Does Your County Stand?

TB Hospital Beds Should Equal Average Annual Number TB Deaths—Possible Sites for New Hospital Inspected.

Possible sites for a new County Tuberculosis Hospital and the existing hospital, were visited and inspected on Monday by State Surgeon Dr. Benedict, Dr. Plunkett, head of the bureau of tuberculosis control of the state health department, State Architect Hart, the committee of the board of supervisors on county tuberculosis hospital and a number of other officials. No definite action was agreed on, but some kind of action is expected in the near future as a tuberculosis hospital is now at the foot of the list in comparative efficiency in dealing with the control of tuberculosis. KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 19, 1923.

RUSSIA IS WEARY.

Trotsky returned to Moscow the other day after five months in exile and was met at the station by exactly six persons; his son, two reporters and three former retainers. That doesn't sound very impressive. His return has been the subject of speculation for weeks and we were led to believe that he would be welcomed by the shouting populace. But nothing of the sort happened. Nobody seemed to care whether he came or went.

This is probably the most accurate item of news we have had out of Russia in many months. It indicates quite clearly the degree to which the Russian has lost interest in politics and politicians after being starved and trampled upon these last few years. Time was when Trotsky the "deliverer" could scarcely drive through the streets of a Russian city so great were the crowds that impeded his way and cheered him.

It is quite apparent that the bewildered people are so weary of the machinations of the soviet and so injured with the futility of the promises of their bosses that they neither know nor care which particular terrorist is dictating affairs as of a given moment. There appears to be a limit even to the credulity of a Russian peasant.

History will recall Trotsky as one of the great destructive geniuses of the ages. Time was when virtually no individual in the world exerted more power. He created nothing, he constructed nothing. His monument is an empire of pillage and murder. He sold his country for a pot of gold, caused many of its best people to be butchered and made his own name a byword for duplicity throughout the world. Yet this is the man who is now recalled for the so-called purpose of re-establishing Russian industry and Russian foreign relations. The mind of the Russian Soviet defies analysis!

WOMEN AND JURY DUTY.

Women are fit for jury duty, says Justice Charles L. Guy, of the New York Supreme Court, in an article published in the law journal called The Panel. He classes jury duty with military service—something the State has a right to demand from its citizens except when there are good reasons for exemptions, as when a citizen is engaged in service so necessary to the community's well-being that it can not well be interrupted. Justice Guy thinks that women should be exempted from jury service if engaged in household duties and if they request it, but he sees "no reason for further exemption or further disqualification of women simply because of their sex." He not only regards women as competent to be jurors but thinks they may be more so than men of the same age, intelligence and experience. As a rule they have had better educational opportunities, and contrary to the common assumption, he is of the opinion that they are "less emotional than men."

Commenting on this surprising assertion, one reviewing editor suggests: "Possibly women have a greater number of emotions than men though not so deep, but that would be hard or impossible to prove. The doctors say that women are less sensitive to pain than men, but that, if true, may be because the women, having more pain to bear than men, have learned through the need to endure it better to accept it as in the course of nature. The emotionality of women appears to be aroused within narrower limits than those of men." Obviously quite a little depends on precisely what Justice Guy means when he makes use of that rather loosely employed word, "emotional."

Comptroller General McCall ruled that a maximum allowance of $5 each to cabin, dining room or table steward is a liberal construction of the "customary fees" permitted a government official on a government ship, and surely $5 this ought to be handsome enough in the case of anybody but the self-advertising nearly enriched.

In regard to a Massachusetts town in which there were only seven Americans in the town's "crew" of children. Does this obviously remarked S. Wood's Advertisement.

that such conditions involve "a foreign conquest of America and a foreign conquest of the worst kind." Fortunately it is now pretty widely understood that there has been too much "conquest" of this sort already, which accounts for restriction of immigration.

HIVES OR BITES.

An epidemic of hives broke out in a college residence, and when the college physician was called by telephone he inquired into the matter of the diet, and made some suggestions to be carried out until he could make a personal visit.

When he arrived he found an eruption on the girl's skin that did not look like a typical hive.

In the center of each raised lump, was a little red spot about as big as a pin point. He was forced to advise the authorities, that these "hives" were really the bites of small insects, and they must investigate and act accordingly.

You saw a real attack of hives comes on very suddenly. You are feeling rather miserable, slight headache and perhaps a little pain in stomach or in abdomen somewhere. A severe eruption appears and may be over the entire body in a few minutes.

The eruption consists of a large lump from the size of a pea to almost the size of an egg, and there may be from ten to one hundred of them. They are usually round or oval in shape. They may be white, pink, or a deep red, but usually have a whitish spot in the center.

Usually a burning or a stinging feeling accompanies the eruption. The cause is practically always through something having gone wrong with the intestinal tract due to bad food, or food that your particular digestive tract cannot handle easily. Oysters, crabs or other shell fish, pork, veal, cucumbers, mushrooms, strawberries, raspberries, and even butter can cause it. Extremes in temperature have been also blamed for it.

Certain drugs will bring out the eruption in some individuals. The treatment is simple. If the attack comes on soon after eating, then the stomach should be emptied by using mustard and water, tickling the throat with a feather, or putting the finger down the throat.

If the attack is some hours after eating, then the old reliable Epsom Salts should be used to clear the intestine.

During the World War thousands of the medals of the Legion were awarded to soldiers and sailors and public servants. There are now five classes. The recipients are numbered by hundreds, whereas there are thousands of the lower classes now being worn. Many American and British citizens have received the medal of the Legion of Honor, and immediately after the war it was also conferred upon the military leaders of the Allies of France.

Better Cattle For Saugerties

Work of Signing Up Dairymen in Townships to Begin Promptly. Following Interesting Meeting at Which Accredited Herd Plan is Explained.

At a meeting on Saturday of fifty leading dairymen and cattle owners of the township of Saugerties, the proposition of opening a campaign to eradicate bovine tuberculosis from all cattle in the township was unanimously adopted. Millard Davis, president of the Ulster County Accredited Herd Cooperative Association, addressing the meeting, outlined the rules and methods laid down by state officials, which must be adopted by dairymen desiring to have cattle tested under state supervision.

Mr. Davis said in part: "Two years ago the state officials at Albany adopted the accredited herd plan as the plan most efficient in eradicating tuberculosis. Briefly this plan requires each county with- in the state to evolve some county organization to organize and carry on the work within the county. Many counties in the state are doing this organization work through their Farm Bureau organization and are turning in a mighty efficient record of work accomplished to state officials. The Farm Bureaus already established and running efficiently, are able to take on this work in addition and put it across in an excellent manner. Several of our larger counties have organized Cooperative Associations working in close contact with the Farm Bureau. Livestock Associations and other county improvement organizations. This latter plan is the one adopted by Ulster county."

"The state further requires that all testing be done on the area basis, each township being considered an area."

In adopting this rule the state felt it necessary in order to systematize the work, prevent reinfection and possible to have a herd tested under state supervision and receiving state indemnity except in an area where work is being done. Work will start in any township in the county where ninety per cent of the cattle owners have signed the county association contract and the state agreement papers.

The Work in Ulster.

In this county the town of Denning has signed up ninety per cent and all have received a test. The town of Gardiner is next in line and the town of Saugerties is in line for a signed papers from 90 per cent of your cattle owners, and all these contracts with the county association, headquarters at the Farm Bureau office. The county association will then notify the state department that the town of Saugerties is ready. On receipt of notice from the state officials work will be started and the entire township tested at one time.

"This is what area work means. It is the only efficient permanent method for eradicating tuberculosis for once and all time."

Regarding the financing of the work, Mr. Davis said: "The Ulster county board of supervisors appropriated for the year 1923 a sum of $2,000. This sum is inadequate. The balance should be borne by the cattle owner. As his share he is asked to pay to the Cooperative Association a sum of $4 as an initiation fee for membership in the association and the sum of $1 per head tested per year. This sum covers expenses of the test, including veterinarian's fees, travel and use of a spray sprayer for removal of rodents. We believe that this system which calls on the cattle owner to bear a part of the expense is justified. The county is paying a share, the state and federal government pay a big share for reactors removed, the owner who benefits most should lay down his share."

Advantages of Tested Cattle.

Following Mr. Davis, County Veterinarian Dr. H. F. Fleming briefly outlined the advantages which will come from tested cattle throughout the township. The sale of milk from tested cows, sale of cow themselves and increased efficiency of healthy cattle in the herd will be lasting factors in forwarding the future success of the community.

A report by William G. Trumpbour to the effect that any dairymen who so desired could receive a test providing the Farm Bureau sanctioned such test was proven erroneous, the source for his information having been biased or misinformed as to facts. Report by H. J. Schreder stated the Farm Bureau had been of assistance to him in securing a test.

Committee Appointed.

Following an open meeting with questions and answers on rules, methods and other details, the meeting adjourned. Clarence Finger, chairman, appointed a committee of three to assist in selecting a dairymen in each of the twenty-one school districts to be responsible for signing up work in the district. An immediate canvass of all cattle owners will follow a meeting of dairymen to be held during this week.

The following contract connects the cattle owner with the local association:

Ulster's Woman's Missionary Union

(Official Report).

The spring convention of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Diocese of Ulster was held in the Reformed Church at Huxley, May 13, with an attendance of over 200.

The convention was called to order by the president, Mrs. M. A. Weed, of Kingston, who appointed the committees for the day. Mrs. A. Zaborskie of Kingston had charge of devotions of hymn, scripture-reading and prayer.

Mrs. Charles Smith of the Hurley Church gave the address of welcome, and Mrs. W. N. Fessenden of Kingston, responded. Twenty societies were represented and each gave interesting reports of the work done and money earned.

Mrs. Arthur Church of Kingston had charge of the readings of Current Events on Missions.

Mrs. J. G. Graham of the Domestic Board gave a very interesting address. Told of the young people in the Kentucky mountains, how anxious they were for an education, and those that had the opportunity, made so much of it, and were leaders in their classes. She also told of the generous hearted ministers in the west, who had opened their homes to the girls who were working their way through college.

After the singing of a hymn we were invited to a splendid luncheon, served by the ladies of the entertaining church.

The afternoon session opened at 1:45 with the singing of a hymn. Mrs. Charles Smith led in prayer. Mrs. Skeetee sang a solo which was greatly enjoyed.

Reports were read by secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Ellsworth asked for a report from the ladies who had visited various societies.

These reports were listened to with much interest.

A pleasing duet was rendered while two ladies waited upon those present for their offering.

Mrs. A. H. Lawrence of the Foreign Board gave an interesting address, she illustrated her talk by using the modern invention, radio, telling us of the foreign countries were calling us, wanted our prayers and money and urged all to subscribe for the Christian Intelligence. Mrs. Weid called for a report from the nominating committee. Mrs. Smith gave this report as follows: For president, Mrs. M. A. Weed, Kingston; first vice president, Mrs. Arthur Church, Kingston; second vice president, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Kingston; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edgar Ellsworth, St. Remy; recording secretary, Mrs. A. H. DeForest, Kingston; treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Fleming.

Mrs. J. B. Wemple of Saugerties gave a report of the resolution committee. She thanked all who had taken part in the day's program, and also the ladies of the entertaining church. An invitation was given for the next convention to be held at Roxbury, N. Y., in October. All speakers on this convention will be from the Reformed Church, Poughkeepsie, and Van Wert. The convention came to a close by the singing of the doxology.

THE SANDMAN STORY

SLY MR. FOX

MR. FOX was very much interested in Mr. Kingbird. He wanted to know more about him. "Does Jimmy Crow always fly away when he sees you?" he inquired.

"Unless it happens to be a Mr. Crow who is very inexperienced," replied Mr. Kingbird, lifting his crest at the thought. "Sometimes a Mr. Crow will be foolish enough to think he can scare me, but he soon learns to his sorrow that I am a born fighter. My wings and my tail, he finds out, were made to help me protect my wife and family."

"Well, can you really pick out the drone from the other bees?" asked Mr. Fox.

"That is what some books tell about me," replied Mr. Kingbird.

"But why do you select the drones? Is it because they haven't a sting?" inquired Mr. Fox.

"Perhaps," answered clever Mr. Kingbird, "but you know, don't you, that while the drones live on honey, they do not take any home. They are not of much use. The workers are the bees that keep things going in the hives."

Mr. Fox had to be satisfied with this answer to his questions, and so he changed the subject. "You said that some books said that you were a tyrant. Are there others that treat you better?"

"Yes, indeed," was the reply. "Some books say that I only give battle when there is just cause and that I am not a bully as others claim that I am.

"Some books print things about the way I bully smaller birds and plague them just for the fun I get out of it. They say I swoop down upon them from a high place and strike them on the head or back of the neck and then dart back like a flash, and that I never make a fair hand-to-hand fight."

"You saw Jimmy Crow, Mr. Fox. Did he try to fight me? No indeed, he just turned and flew away. I had to chase him to make him keep away from my nest, and that is the way it is. You see, I get blamed for things I never do, and am called names I do not deserve."

"But some of the books tell the truth about me and say I do a great deal of good—that while I do eat bees, it has been found that most of my diet consists of insects that Mr. Man is glad to get out of the way."

"Well, if you never do anything else," said Mr. Fox, "you can scare Jimmy Crow, and that, in my opinion, is enough to make you a king."

Mr. Kingbird did not answer, for at that moment he spied Jimmy Crow or one of his brothers or cousins coming toward his home tree, and away darted Mr. Kingbird to show he was still on the watch.

The next time Mr. Fox saw Jimmy Crow, he said: "I saw you the other day, Jimmy, but you were in too much of a hurry to see me. You seemed to be going in the same direction that Mr. Kingbird was going, only you were ahead, Jimmy. Did you happen to see him?"

Jimmy Crow cocked his head to one side and gave a loud call. Mr. Fox darted away under the bushes. Jimmy Crow had given the warning that means to all who hear it. "There is a fox about, look out!"

Presently Jimmy stopped his cries. "He is a sly one, he is," said Jimmy to himself, "always seeing things you don't want him to. Now I wonder where he was on that day when I started to call on the Kingbirds. Just going to pay them a little visit, was all I was going to do."

"Well, I can send Mr. Fox running any time. I tell folks he is about." Off flew Jimmy cawing as if he wasn't afraid of a thing in the world; but then he knew that Mr. Kingbird was not anywhere around just then.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

NINA

THOUGH Nina has a typically French sound, the name is regarded as English. However, it came to us through the French by a lengthy process of evolution. The Hebrew Chanach was its earliest source and from this word it derived its significance of "grace."

Through the English Hannah, it came to France as Anne and was soon given the diminutive, Annette. As Ninette, it appeared simultaneously, but the French love of variety changed the latter form to Nanon and finally Nina.

The beauty and fame of Ninon de l'Enclos, superwoman and court "vamp" in the reign of Louis XIV, spread her name afar. It became almost a synonym for charmer and the maids of several countries coveted it. But Nina is too Gallic for English ears, so, in its transportation across the channel, the ending underwent a change and Nina was the final result. It has enjoyed extraordinary vogue in this country.

The diamond is Nina's talismanic gem. It is the emblem of fearlessness and invincibility and promises its wearer success in all undertakings and freedom from misgivings. According to an old superstition, it enhances the love of a husband for his wife. Sunday is Nina's lucky day and 3 her lucky number.

Must Admit that Bee Is Kept Fairly Busy

A bee weighs only 1-300th part of an ounce, so the weight of the load it carries back to its hive must necessarily be small—probably not more than 1-1200th part of an ounce, or little more than a quarter of the bee's weight.

This means that in order to gather one pound of nectar the bee must make 20,000 journeys out and home. But this is not all profit to the bee. Nectar is only half honey, so that the production of a pound of pure honey requires 40,000 journeys.

What would you reckon an average trip for a bee? A low estimate would certainly give a quarter of a mile each way, or, out and home, half a mile. In that case it is easy to see that a bee must fly 20,000 miles to gather the raw material for a pound of honey. This is equal to 1,200 miles per ounce. Yes, the bee is a great hustler—and, when he has done his job, he gets soaked of all his takings!

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

LADY-BUGS, NEW CLOTHES

IF A lady-bug lights on your hand it means a pair of new gloves. If on your dress a new dress, if on your shoes a new pair of shoes, etc. This, according to the journal of the American Folk-Lore Society, is a common superstition in Massachusetts and Upper Canada. The genesis of it is easy to discover. The lady-bug was the especial pet and representative of the Norse Goddess Freya, the goddess of fruitfulness and the dispenser of good gifts.

To this day the Scandinavian and North German farmers look for good crops when they see the lady-bugs unusually plentiful, and Teutonic and Norse mythology and folk-lore is full of good words regarding the spotted, little, winged insect whose markings are said to be those of the sun, in which radiant orb, according to one version, Freya had her home. From the attributes assigned to Freya it would appear that her worship was compounded of sun-worship and of the worship of the procreative forces of nature. At any rate she was bounteous in her bestowal of good gifts, and so when one of her bright little representatives alights upon any article of clothing you are wearing, it naturally indicates that the beneficent goddess is going to make you a present of a new garment of the same description.

Fewer Accidents This Spring

State Motor Vehicle Bureau Reports A Marked Improvement in Observance of Traffic Law—Owners Should Renew Licenses.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 19.—There has been a marked improvement this spring in the observance of traffic law by owners of automobiles, according to officials of the state motor vehicle bureau.

Fewer accidents have been reported in the last two months than for the same period last year. There is still an opportunity for greater improvement and the officials are hoping that this summer will show a gain over last summer.

State highways are being thoroughly covered now by the motor vehicle inspectors and they are seeing to it that the traffic laws are being rigidly enforced.

The owner of every automobile in the state should see to it that his license to drive a car is renewed on or before June 30, when the present licenses expire. There will be no extension of time, according to Commissioner Charles A. Harnett of the motor vehicle bureau, and every person driving a car after June 30 who does not carry the proper credentials will be subject to arrest.

In all counties outside the metropolitan district, new licenses will be issued if applications are made to county clerks and renewal stubs are detached from existing licenses and presented with the applications. In cases where the stubs are not attached the applications and fees must be referred to the motor vehicle headquarters at Albany.

In the following counties—Bronx, New York, Kings, Richmond, Westchester, Rockland, Nassau and Suffolk—renewals will be issued on application forms sent from the New York office.

All chauffeurs' licenses also expire June 30. They will be issued directly from the Albany and New York offices of the motor vehicle bureau and not from the offices of the county clerks.

Junior operators' licenses will not be renewed. Those desiring such licenses must apply at the Albany office.

LITTLE MISS WALKER PLEASES AUDIENCE.

Miss Margaret Richards of this city has returned from West Point, where she held a reception last Friday afternoon for the children who are taking dancing lessons of her, and their parents and friends. Miss Richards took with her to West Point Little Miss Bernadette Walker of this city, a charming little dancer, who is one of Miss Richards' star pupils. Her dancing was enthusiastically applauded so that she was obliged to give three encores and then a recitation. Another feature of the delightful entertainment was the aesthetic dancing of a West Point lassie, Miss Virginia Cain, the program being rounded out with dances by the entire class. This reception marked the closing of Miss Richards' class at West Point this season. The first of June, Miss Richards expects to go to New York city for two months' study at the Chalfont Normal School of Russian Dancing, at the end of which time she will receive her diploma. She will resume her classes in both Kingston and West Point in the early fall.

Reason Enough

Newspaper space is the complete medium of advertising.

Complete, because it will accomplish all things that good advertising may be expected reasonably to accomplish.

It is not an adjunct or a supplement to any other kind of advertising.

For the national advertiser, it insures rapid and thorough retail distribution. Retailers want newspaper-advertised merchandise, because Newspaper advertising sells goods.

That is why the bulk of all advertising appears in the newspapers.

There are other reasons for the supremacy of newspaper advertising, but none so important as this—

It sells merchandise over the counter.

BOY STICKS TO SWITCHBOARD IN HOSPITAL FIRE

Firemen Find the Boy on Floor at Post After Saving Patients.

Englewood, N. J.—Fifty patients were carried safely from a blazing hospital recently while a substitute office boy enacted the role of hero in true movie style.

The boy is fifteen-year-old John Marcks, who was sitting at the hospital switchboard when flames shot out of the X-ray room. A nurse told him to stick by his plugs as long as he could, so that all wards might be notified of the fire. John is a stunner.

Half an hour later when the patients, most of them surgical cases and helpless, had been removed from the building, and all the volunteers helpers had been withdrawn, a fireman took a last look, just on the chance that some one had been overlooked.

Kicks When Rescued.

Bare enough, on the floor of the office lay a form, almost obscured by the smoke. At the height of a man's head the smoke was thick enough to suffocate one who breathed it. The fireman immediately put his rescue training in use, grabbed the recumbent one's heels and yanked him toward safety.

"Lemme go!" bawled John. "Lemme go. I gotta tend the switchboard and I'm just lying on the floor to keep out of the smoke."

The fireman explained that the fire was over so far as John was concerned and dragged him out.

Only the wooden portion of the hospital was burned. A mother with a day-old babe was one of the patients removed. A club next door was turned over to house the homeless sick ones for the time being.

Englewood is discussing a medal or something for John.

Creeps Through Fire Bed in Locomotive Furnace

Syracuse, N. Y.—Horace Harris, forty, went to sleep about two o'clock in the morning in the firebox of a laid-up locomotive at the Solway yards of the New York Central railroad.

His stint—he is on the railroad payroll as a boiler inspector—was done for the night. He was tired. It was bitter cold outside, and he figured the firebox provided a comfortable place to snatch a few winks before quitting time.

At three o'clock in the morning he was sound asleep. A fireman got on the locomotive, placed oil-soaked waste and other kindling in the firebox and applied a torch. Harris awoke to find himself cut off by a wall of fire. He scrambled through the flames over six feet of burning kindling. Once outside he fainted, and the firemen and other railroad workers beat out the flames enveloping him.

He is in a serious condition in Good Shepherd hospital.

Aged Man Falls Into Bath Tub; Is Drowned

Chicago.—While preparing to take his Sunday morning bath, Carl Holmes, eighty-three years old, fell on his face into the water and was drowned. Holmes lives alone in a rented room at 1218 Melrose street. Town Hall police were called. A few minutes after they had gone to the Melrose street address they were called to 623 Buckingham place, where James Kuchurka, forty-eight years old, had dropped dead of heart disease.

Husband Spurns Help Until Ill Wife Is Saved

New York.—Trapped by flames in their fifth-floor apartment, Edward Koffenberg spurned rescue until firemen had taken his invalid wife to safety. The couple are each sixty-five years old.

Koffenberg, with escape cut off by way of the stairs, was crouched on the fire escape when the firemen arrived, under command of Captain Reigh. An aerial ladder was run up, and firemen Hawkins, Bayard, Higgins and Cook mounted to the level of the fire escape, where Koffenberg stood, silhouetted against the glare of the flames within.

It took Hawkins and Bayard but a moment to leap from the ladder to the frail, steel balcony and then step into the smoke-filled room, where Koffenberg pointed out his bed-ridden wife. They lifted the woman out and passed her to the two firemen on the ladder, who carried her down to the street. Then Hawkins and Bayard helped the husband down, while the crowd in the street cheered.

CARRIES DEAD BABY IN TRUNK

Needy Mother Is Freed by Baltimore Coroner.

Baltimore, Md.—Having no money to bury her baby when it died in 1910, and not knowing that the city would bury the child for her, Mrs. Mary Urban told Coroner Hennessey that she had placed the body in a trunk and had carried the trunk around with her for nearly five years. Mrs. Urban was arrested in Philadelphia following the finding of the body in the trunk at a boarding house here, where she had left it for a board bill.

Coroner Hennessey, on hearing her story, assured that the child died of natural causes, ordered her released.

Her husband, Adolph, who now is in Germany, put the body in the satchel and locked it in the trunk, she said. That was in 1919. Since then, during their frequent movings from place to place, she carried it with her, she said. Last May, however, she was forced to leave it because she could not pay a board bill.

The trunk was abandoned by Mrs. Urban, who is a ship stewardess, at a rooming house in the 700 block of Park avenue, eleven months ago. Mrs. Mary Haas, who recently took over the management of the place, called police to open the trunk Thursday. In it they found some clothes and a handbag. In the handbag was the baby.

Charges Husband Wed Six and Gave Vow to Seventh

New York.—Six times wed and ready for a seventh bride—such is the status of Louis Klee, if one accepts the word of his wife, Rose, who has informed the police her husband is wanted in Cleveland for bigamy.

Mrs. Klee No. 1 says she married Louis in 1911 at Bloomington, Del., and that after a rather hectic married life he left her, she says, to wed Margaret McKay at Stamford, Conn., in September, 1913. The following year, she states, he married a girl named Helen in Chicago, and in June, 1921, he married a Helen Smith, at Elkton, Md., under the name of Louis Klatz. Wife No. 5, she claims, was a Rose Ohlbaum of Cleveland, and there was a sixth whose name she couldn't recall.

After all these marital experiences, Mrs. Rose Klee charges her husband met a pretty New York girl whom he has promised to marry. Klee is in the Tombs in default of $3,000 bail.

Kansas Vigilantes to Kill Off Bank Bandits

Kansas City, Kan.—"No work for the jury!" is the slogan of a vigilante committee organized to protect local banks against robbers. Distribution of arms to members of the committee, which is composed of bank employees and business men in the neighborhood of banks, is under way. Two hundred and fifty rifles, sawed-off shotguns and .45-caliber revolvers will be placed in the hands of persons who are being trained to use them in an emergency.

Each bank is being equipped with an alarm that may be set off at a number of places in the building.

When the alarm is sounded, under the plan, each vigilante will take his station and open fire on the bandits.

If PRUNES were high priced there might be some excuse for serving them less often but why deprive yourself when a heaping dish costs only 2¢

That's the remarkable thing about Prunes—they are not only good to eat and very good for you—but you can afford to serve them generously, because they actually cost so little.

And now's the time to serve them liberally. The Spring diet calls for fruit more than any other season—especially with the first meal of the day.

Many dieticians and food authorities give Prunes first choice for breakfast. They know what a properly-balanced breakfast means in health and working efficiency. And they know that Prunes supply just those elements needed to balance the eggs, cereals and meats, and other highly-concentrated foods that make up such a large part of the average breakfast menu.

Ask your grocer for SUNSWEET Prunes—sweet, plump, thin-skinned fruit, from the famous orchards of California—grown, selected and packed by the growers themselves. Protect yourself! Buy SUNSWEET Prunes, always clean and fresh, in the convenient, new 2-lb. carton—or in bulk, from the regular 25-lb. box. You will be delighted with their uniform high quality.

Evaneglist to Conduct Services

Rev. Thomas Houston Will Conduct Two Weeks' Special Series of Evangelistic Services Here—Churches Cooperating.

The Rev. Thomas Houston, an evangelist of international fame, will conduct a two weeks' special series of evangelistic services in Kingston. They will be held in the local Salvation Army Hall on North Front street. The first service will be on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

The churches of Kingston are co-operating with Capt. Ralph Miller in this great series of services and each night a delegation from one of the churches will be present and provide special music.

Wednesday night at 8 o'clock the Wurtz Street Baptist Church with the Rev. Gerhardt will attend.

Thursday night at 8 o'clock service will be held in the Roundout Presbyterian Church and will be a union service for the Trinity M. E., Wurtz Street Baptist and the Roundout Presbyterian Churches.

Friday night at 8 o'clock there will be delegations from the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian and Albany Avenue Baptist Churches. The Rev. Putnam Cady and the Rev. Arthur S. Cole will attend.

Saturday night at 8 o'clock this will be known as Clinton Avenue M. E. night with the Methodists and the Rev. Robert A. Greenwell.

The Rev. Thomas Houston comes to Kingston very highly recommended by churches and religious leaders all over the country and in other lands. Dr. Houston was at one time a classmate of Dr. Ellis of this city.

He was born in Greenock, Scotland and his Scotch brogue will delight the hearts of the Kingston Scotch folk. He has had theological and collegiate training and was ordained to the ministry by the Presbytery of Jersey City. For a number of years he was pastor of a Jersey City church.

He is heralded as a man of eloquence and energy. He sings very fine solos and to see him read his Bible from raised characters is said to be dramatically interesting. The public is invited to come and hear this safe and sane revivalist.

EMPHASIZED IN PARIS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Of the several new silhouettes emphasized in midseason showings of the Paris couture, the one with lowered back fullness is most radical. Contrary to the impression one may get from reading of this silhouette, it really retains the greatly acclaimed slim line.

Any tampering that Paris does to the silhouette, is invariably at so low a line that in general effect the straight line may be said to prevail. To overset added fullness, trimmings are placed vertically, to elongate the line—as in the accompanying sketch. The addition of straight bands of plain material to a printed frock or tunic is a clever device, and that the bordered idea retains its strong position, any survey of new models will prove.

Printed Chiffon With Groups of Tucks Running Parallel With Bands of Solid Color.

There are so many versions of the tunic that one never tires of the theme, and as a hot-day costume, the tunic is greatly to be commended. For one thing, it is easy to slip on and off, and, given an assortment of tulle or satin slips, one has the nucleus for an extensive wardrobe.

Another innovation is a gesture toward the barrel silhouette and a tendency to experiment with boleros. In one or two cases, waistlines have the appearance of being higher, but this is only because of the placement of a decoration. Waistlines at the normal line are another important notation to be made in jotting down midseason collection details. Bishop sleeves and high collars being other details of merit.

Collars are frequently convertible, and are worn fastened about the throat or opening in a deep V. The scarf collar, considered as one of the popular successes of the season. Many frocks continue to tie at the waist, collar, or waistline. But buttons, if not actually useful, are at least ornamental.

U. S. Bureau Chief and Civic Leader Urge Better Homes For Sake of Growing Boys and Girls

Miss Grace Abbott.

J. Horace McFarland.

The home in its relation to the child, as the place where the character of the future citizens of the republic is most influenced and molded, is one of the major concerns of Better Homes in America. The National Congress of Parents and Teachers with its 12,000 local Parent-Teachers' Association, for instance, is one of the great national organizations co-operating fully with Better Homes in America.

Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, who is a member of the Advisory Council of Better Homes in America, has expressed this phase of the educational work of that organization in the following terms:

"The home is the child's world during the most important habit-forming period of his life. Better homes could be provided for the vast majority of American children during this year of our Lord 1925 with little real sacrifice. Better Homes Week could serve no more useful purpose than as a re-education of the home to the object for which it really exists and stimulating community co-operation in the elimination of everything that defeats its purpose."

J. Horace McFarland, president of the American Civic Association, also a member of the Better Homes in America Advisory Council, speaking of the movement, says: "The work that has been done in America cannot be completed in one year. The movement as it has proceeded is the best answer to the old, un-Christian unsocial and uncivilized habit of the law of supply and demand."

"The Better Homes movement, even if constrained by this fallacious old law, improves the demand, but far more important than that it sets up ideals, provides principles and promotes accomplishments which go far toward securing the stability of our government by promoting contented citizenship, only possible when homes are suitable, slightly and satisfactorily."

Better Homes Week this year is from May 11th to 17th inclusive. Dr. James Ford, executive director of this organization reports from its National Headquarters at Washington that more than fifteen hundred communities have organized campaigns in co-operation with Better Homes in America this year in order to do what they can to raise the standards of local housing and of home life.

Home Folks Solving Big Coal Problem By Laying In Supply During Summer

ONE YEAR'S PRODUCTION OF ANTHRACITE

It would take 33 Great Pyramids to equal this in size.

GREAT (or CHEOPS) PYRAMID 750 FT. IN HEIGHT 451 FT. WIDE AT BASE

MORE coal for domestic use is likely to be bought during this coming summer than ever before. Figures prepared by the Anthracite Bureau of Information show that the householder is taking increasing advantage every year of the discount for early buying and that by storing his own coal in his cellar he is protecting himself against winter stoppage of transportation or mining.

In five of the last ten years there has been an excess of summer over winter purchases of anthracite. At present, 48 per cent are made between April and September.

The average number of days worked in the anthracite mines in the ten years ending 1923 (excluding the strike year 1922) was 264, as compared to only 166 in the decade ending 1910. The average miner drawing his pay envelope for the week has two more working days in his credit than was the case 20 years ago.

These data indicate the extent to which seasonal buying of this household fuel has been overcome and the extent to which the problem of transporting coal from the mine mouth to the consumer's cellar is being solved.

Getting Coal To Consumers

If one year's output of anthracite, averaging about 75,000,000 tons, were allowed to accumulate at the mines the pile would be 33 times the size of the Cheops or Great Pyramid in Egypt. It requires 1,400,000 railroads to haul a year's production of anthracite from the mines. Each car trips the mines about 20 times a year.

so that at least 45,000 cars are in daily service.

In chuting one year's supply into the cellars, 17,500,000 normal truckloads would be needed. More than 5,500,000 private homes and an almost equal number of families living in apartment houses are served by anthracite dealers. Neither the railroads nor the available delivery trucks would be able to meet the transportation problem in coal if consumers did not buy all the year round.

Official figures of the Government show the evil effects of seasonality. The cost of producing 1 ton of coal is greatly increased by irregular operations. In a mine which works 50 per cent of the time the increase in the cost of mining one ton is 5 cents on the dollar, in a mine which works 60 per cent of the time the increase is 14 cents on the dollar, and in a mine which works 45 per cent of the time the increase is 27 cents on the dollar.

The elimination of seasonal production began some years ago when the anthracite producers offered progressive discounts for summer purchases. A ton bought in April costs on the average 50 cents less than a ton bought in September.

Balance of Supply and Demand. Experts are agreed that the cheapest and most efficient place to store next winter's coal is in the cellar bin. According to the United States Coal Commission: "Storage of coal by consumers is the all important balance wheel between fluctuating production and a steady production. It is the consumer's responsibility to store coal in order to avoid the fluctuations of production."

Means Majority Rule

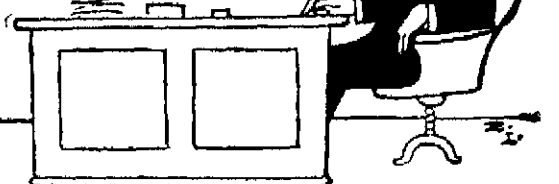

"Preferential voting" is a system of voting which allows each voter the right to express and mark his first choice, but his second and third choices among the candidates. The object of preferential voting is to secure the election of persons desired by a majority and not merely a plurality of the voters.

Colorful Window Shades

THE effect of unattractive window shades is increased by this new method. Let this grab emphasis become a background for colorful decoration. Out a test—first brighten from creases. Apply it to the shade with the best quality of liquid glue. Be careful to store it so that it will remain as new. The use of this window treatment unnecessary for it effectively presents unattractive.

Dr. Domore states the case

"I've found that a lot of people suffer from winter colds and other ailments because they don't have the right kind of ventilation in cold weather. That's why I favor Warm Air Furnaces. They are fool proof. Even if the windows are tightly closed, fresh air is sent into the rooms, through the registers. I have a celebrated Thatcher Tubular Furnace in my own cellar. I get plenty of heat, splendid ventilation, and the rooms are never stuffy."

THE Thatcher "Tubular" Warm Air Furnace provides a constant flow of pure, fresh air through every room in the house—air that has the necessary amount of healthful humidity. The large vapor pan has a broad evaporating surface. A convenient cover permits easy filling.

How Strong Is Colonial Club?

Question Will Be Answered Sunday When The American Chain Team of Bridgeport Plays at Fair Grounds.

The American Chain team of Bridgeport, Conn., is coming to Kingston Sunday with the avowed intention of taking the Colonials in camp.

With such players as Grant Cassey, Jimmie Hamill, George Moshier, Shoes Hammond and Backus of the old Schatz club of Poughkeepsie in their line-up, echoes of the old Schatz-Colonial feud of a few years ago will be revived.

In 1922 and 1923 when the Colonials were sweeping all opposition before them, J. William Schatz gathered a galaxy of stars from Bridgeport and brought them to Poughkeepsie, giving them jobs in his factory at double pay, with afternoons off to practice, with the one idea to get together a team that could trim the Colonials.

The fans of the Hudson river valley were all aflutter with the battle between the two clubs, and when the Colonials played at Poughkeepsie and Poughkeepsie at Kingston each team was followed by hundreds of rooters.

Schatz's club as well as Freddie Wetmore's club always claimed that it was through the efforts of Bud Culliton, who is now with the "Pittsburgh Pirates," that the Kingston club were able to be known as the semi-pro champs of the Hudson river valley, as well as eastern New York.

Cassey, who will be remembered as the captain of the Schatz club, is willing to bet his share of the money Sunday that the Chain team will go back to Bridgeport Sunday with the big end of the score, and to back up his statements, points to his victory over the Poughkeepsie Red Sox by a 10-7 score, with Bill Kelliher who had gone 21 scoreless innings for the Red Sox in the box, and when it is recalled that Kelliher beat the D. & H. Generals 1-0 the previous Sunday, it will be seen that the Colonials are in for a tough battle Sunday.

The Chain team will send either Backus or Pete Wilson, a southpaw, who was down with the Giants two years ago, in against the home club. The American Chain team has already won six games in a row, one being over the Bridgeport Eastern League club, 3-1, in which Backus only gave three hits, one being a long home run over the left field wall by Lutz, the catcher of the Eastern League club.

The Colonials will have both Russell and Morgan here for this game as it will really be a test of strength to see if the Poughkeepsie Red Sox are as strong as it is claimed for them.

The Colonials will be put through several workouts this week, as they are determined to take Sunday's game, and if they display the form of last week, the fans of this city are in for a red hot game on Sunday. If present plans go through one of the most popular players who ever wore a Colonial uniform will be in center field, to fill the place of Mercer, who has joined the College Point team of Long Island.

Horse Shoe Pitching League

So large was the number of teams entered in the Inter Church Horse Shoe Pitching League that it was found necessary to divide them into three different leagues, National, American and Federal.

At the end of the season an elimination tournament will be held among the winners of each league to decide the winner and runner up. Cups will be presented to the teams finishing in the first two places. Churches having more than one team in the league must file with the secretary, a list of players and substitutes on each team before the first game is played.

Games will be played at 7 p. m. on the date scheduled. Courts are being laid out in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. Regulation horse shoes will be furnished by the Y. M. C. A. Elimination tournament of the league will be held at 6 p. m. on Wednesday, July 1.

The Colonial Red Sox Series

First Game at Poughkeepsie on May 31, With Return Game Here on June 7.—Series of Nine Games Will Probably Be Scheduled.

The long talked of series between the Colonials and the Red Sox of Poughkeepsie has practically been arranged for and it is likely that a series of possibly nine games will be the outcome of the conference which was held Monday afternoon. The Colonial management desires to meet the Sox and the Bridge City club is anxious to meet Kingston. Both are confident of winning any series arranged.

At the meeting Monday the matter of games was talked over and it was decided that the Colonials should go down to Poughkeepsie first. The game will take place on May 31. The Red Sox will play their first game here, June 7. Later games will be arranged for and the number determined but from present indications it appears as though the nine game series is the best adapted to the two clubs.

The American Chain team of Bridgeport, Conn., one of the best semi-pro teams in the country defeated the Red Sox at Poughkeepsie. The American Chain team will be the attraction at the Fair Grounds on Sunday and at that time it will be possible to form some idea of the merits of the down river team after the Colonials have finished with the Chain team. A comparison of the Colonials and the Red Sox can be made when the outcome of the game Sunday is known since the Red Sox fell before the stickers from Connecticut.

The management of the Colonials has decided to admit all children to the grounds for 15 cents and an additional charge of 15 cents will be made for a seat on the grand stand. Realizing that the children of today are the fans of tomorrow the management has taken this step to encourage the children to attend and to allow them to do so as cheaply as possible.

Really Seemed Mother Might Have Done That

Johnny was told by his mother not to leave the front yard in his play. A few minutes later a chum came by and asked him to go kite flying. Johnny went to the gate, but remembered his mother's admonition and remained in the yard.

Shortly after another chum with a red wagon asked Johnny to go to the hill to play. Johnny walked through the gate and out on the walk. Then he remembered his mother's warning and returned to the yard.

Some time later temptation appeared again in the form of another chum with two goats. He left the yard and was almost to the corner when his mother called him.

"Johnny," she said, "I saw you catch that one started to leave and then saw you when you did leave. You remember what I told you—not to leave the yard."

"Then, mother," he said, "if you saw me each time, why didn't you tap on the window and help a fellow when temptation was so near?"

Errors by Bennett Bring Out History

When Young Bennett, subbing for Jacobson in the opening game with Cleveland the other day, made three errors on as many chances it was thought he had set a record for misplays in the pastures.

But while the tot's performance was terrible, in plain words, it was still a bit shy of the mark hung up by Al Seibach, Baltimore outfielder, on Aug. 19, 1902.

That afternoon Seibach came through with exactly five errors. It was the worst performance in American league history and tied the National record.

INSTALLMENT PLAN GETS RACE TICKET

Newsboy Paid Way to Automobile Contest by Paying Ten Cents Down.

The only person who ever purchased a ticket to a 500-mile race on the installment plan—an eight-year-old newsboy, seven years ago—has just purchased his ducat for the 1925 International contest which will be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. He is Ralph Bradford, fifteen, a physically handicapped newsboy who hasn't missed a local race since he was eight years old.

Seven years ago, as a tot scarcely able to see over the seat sale counter, he pleaded that a ticket be sold him on the 10 cents down, 10 cents a week plan. He was a good salesman and won. He hasn't missed a race since.

"I have just returned from a wonderful vacation," he wrote—for he cannot speak audibly—when he came to the Speedway office this year. "I walked out to Denver and back, selling papers and working along the route. I saw a lot of strange things. His vision also is impaired.

Ralph's first seat cost a dollar. Then he jumped to a $7 box seat the following year. But after his one year of extravagance he has continued to park himself in the dollar section. Undoubtedly he enjoys the race more thoroughly than any of the more fortunate patrons who can afford $25 advantage points from which to watch the daring speeders.

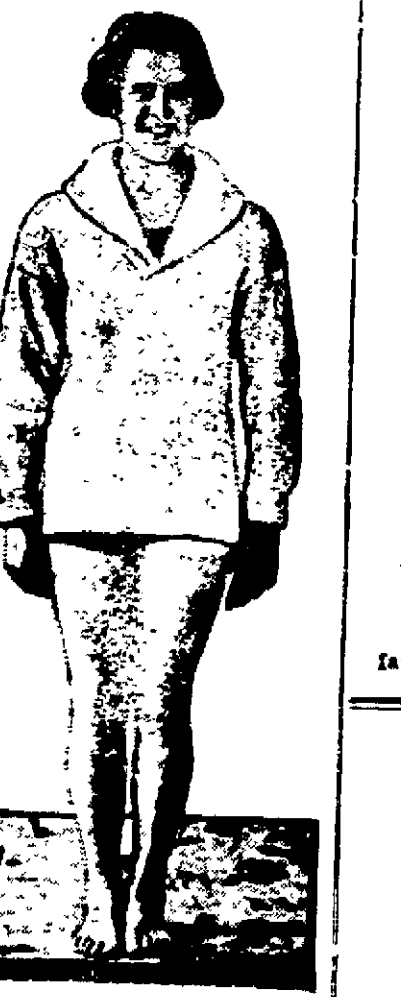

The newsboy's patronage is looked upon as a good omen at the Speedway plant. Ever since he started his unusual purchase plan, the crowd has swelled each year.

"No more tickets will ever be sold on the installment plan, though," smiled T. E. "Pop" Myers, general manager of the Speedway, in answer to a leading question.

"Topper" Rigney Trains Glove to Improve Play

Topper Rigney of the Detroit Tigers thinks his glove will help improve his play this season. Rigney has been three years breaking in a glove that suits him. He says it has the "feel" he has been seeking. Two of Rigney's troubles have been high flies over the infield and hard-hit grounders. Occasionally, the fly balls have not "stuck" after he has reached them and frequently he has been handicapped by ground smashes. To a large extent the blame for the errors has been on gloves that were not sufficiently pliable to let the shortstop "freeze" on to the ball when it was once in his hand. Rigney says the glove he is wearing now is thoroughly broken.

Berlenbach Sure Of Wearing Crown

Light Heavyweight Championship Bout on May 29, Between Paul Berlenbach and Mike McGuire Expected To Be Fast Affair.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 19.—Youth, no doubt, would be something of a handicap to a justice of the supreme court; stamina might not be altogether necessary to the watchman at the railroad crossing, and ambition undoubtedly proved the downfall of Caesar.

But, co-ordinated, they are to a boxer what a porch is to a second story man, and Paul Berlenbach has all three. He is so certain that he will be the next light heavyweight champion of the world after the Milk Fund Show May 29, that he has begun to look ahead to the immediate future.

Blindly, he remarked today that he would defend the title against Jack Delaney before the end of the present outdoor season.

"It might be well to think more about beating Mike McGuire on May 29," it was suggested.

"McGuire? Don't make our young man laugh. His sides ache now. 'I'll beat McGuire,' he remarked quietly. 'I'll wear him down and then I'll beat him. He has managed to stay the limit with other men because he has tied them up in the clinches. Mike will find I'm too young and strong for that.'"

Berlenbach is nine years younger than the champion and that probably will tell the story, if any is to be told on May 29. He has the youth and stamina to go fifteen rounds or fifty; he has the punch which has dropped twenty-one out of twenty-four opponents and, while his guns may miss in a limited engagement, the odds are with him over the fifteen round distance.

Broadway, seldom wrong when it takes the time to weigh a situation carefully, has installed Berlenbach an eight to five favorite. In only a few instances has Broadway made a challenger the favorite and all of them have been justified in the post mortem returns.

Harry Greb was a staunch favorite over Johnny Wilson. Harry won. Johnny Dundee was tipped as a very good thing against Eugene Crippin. Johnny won. Charley Phil Rosenberg entered the ring a last minute favorite over Eddie Cannonball Martin and Charley Phil came home on the bit.

Once Broadway manages to shake off the inhibition that a champion can do no wrong, it lines itself up with a winner. In the case of Berlenbach, all the shaking necessary could have been done by an armless paralytic.

Rum Runners Use Smoke Screen

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Mass., May 19.—Rum runners are baffling the coast guard and running the gauntlet of the blockade of "Rum Row" by the use of a liquid preparation in the motors of their speed boats.
Persons who have been out to Rum Row said today that the preparation used by the smugglers throws a smoke screen out of the exhaust pipe.
At the approach of a coast patrol several of the power boats throw out a screen while other power boats make a dash for "Rum Row" and return with a hastily gathered cargo of contraband.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 19.—Bullish advances in motor, utility and industrial stocks kept the speculative market boiling today. The DuPont-Mack Truck stocks linked in consolidation rumors reacted slightly and then charged upward on one of the most enthusiastic buying movements of the year. DuPont reached 162 1/2, up nine points, while Mack Trucks was up about ten points. The advance of Nash Motor through 400 was an important incident of the day.

Heavy buying of Electric Power and Light stock that stood up to a new high at 31, while Utah Securities reached 132, up six points. United States Steel and American Can pushed forward briskly as leaders in the industrial stocks. Railroad shares, after a late start, sold higher. American Smelting and Refining was a strong leader in the copper stocks advancing 2 1/2 points to 99 1/2; both the copper metal market and the low priced copper stocks displayed a firmer tone.

There was no demand for the oil, sugar, equipment, shipping and specialty stocks.

Sterling exchange struck a new high at 4.85 1/2, fractionally below par; call money was in good supply at 3 1/2 per cent.

Dry Agents Seek Moonshiners

Southern Hill Country Becomes Active as Agents Seek to Suppress Ancient Industry—Majority of Dry Agents Killed by Moonshiners.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 19.—Corking up, one by one, the sources of America's liquor supply, the prohibition "infantry" has launched an attack in the southern mountain sector, which for generations has been noted for its output of moonshine whiskey.

This was made known today at the prohibition unit.

Frequent raids are being conducted by revenue agents and deputy United States marshals throughout the isolated hill districts south of the Mason and Dixon Line.

Early returns from the "front" indicated a large capture of stills and several prisoners.

The "infantry" attack suddenly followed the coast guard's dramatic naval coup off the eastern coast.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon believes that the rum trust will be wrecked by the combined land and sea attack.

The situation, summed up today, showed the following government activities:

Coast guard tightening its throttle hold along Rum Row and conducting raids and reconnaissance patrols on the Atlantic City, Norfolk, Florida, Gulf, Great Lakes and Pacific sectors. These minor operations are preparatory to another big offensive.

Over two hundred prohibition agents concentrated on Long Island, center of liquor land activities, according to officials.

Agents operating in New York, the borders in Florida, the lower Mississippi, the northwest and other strategic points where it is believed tactical moves will further upset the shadow organization.

As romantic and fully as dramatic as operations of the rum smugglers is the story of the moonshiners. Secluded in the rough mountains, at the head of a lonely hollow, in an abandoned coal mine, or cave, is still, protected not only by the surrounding hills, but by his neighbors.

Cornered by revenue agents, the moonshiner fights. Of the forty-two prohibition agents killed since the dry law went into effect, a big percentage of casualties has occurred in the southern states, official reports show.

About the Folks

William Smith of 12 Hudson street, who is under the care of Dr. John Larkin, has been removed to the Benedictine Hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Drewes, Jr., and mother, Mrs. L. Squires, with Mrs. Ira D. Beatty, returned to Albany to spend the week end with her daughter, Miss Gladys K. Reynolds, who is attending the New York State College.

Miss Mildred Neher of Port Ewen returned Sunday from Enlewood, Cliffs, N. J., where she was called on account of the illness of her niece, Charlotte Houghtaling, who underwent a serious operation for mastoiditis.

Wood as Polisher

An interesting use of rotten wood is in the polishing of the fine parts of the highest grade Swiss and French watches. Formerly this material was more extensively employed than at present, being largely supplanted by machinery and benzene. The escape parts and small screws are still in large part polished by hand and rotten wood. The value of the rotten wood used annually in Switzerland for this purpose is about $4,000, the best quality bringing a price of $1 a pound. What is wanted is a yellowish white silky material, soft and spongy, in which the growth rings are still visible.—J. S. Record, in American Forest and Forest Life.

Tomatoes Not Long Popular

Tomatoes were probably first grown in the Sixteenth century in Peru. They were grown in an ancient time in Mexico, but they did not become an economic fruit until about 1800 years ago. At that time (1800) they were grown for ornament and were called the love apple. It was not until about 1850 that decided steps were taken to improve the tomato commercially. A. W. Livingston, seedman in Columbus, Ohio, brought out the old variety known as Tompkins. The tomato was grown as early as 1805 in England, mostly in hothouses, and as early as 1812 in Italy.

Wanted to Be Sure

Father had provided his small daughter that if she were very good she should go to a vaudeville theater in the evening on condition that she behaved nicely during the performance. She maintained an unusually good manner all day, and just before starting for the theater inquired anxiously: "If there should be a joke, would you mind if I laugh?"

Victims' Kin In Demonstration

Death Penalty Demanded for Woman Who Dressed Wounds of Conspirator in Sofia Cathedral Bomb Outrage.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Sofia, May 19.—Bereaved relatives of the approximately 160 persons who were killed in the recent Communist bombing of Sofia Cathedral made a demonstration today against prisoners on trial charged with complicity in that crime.

Hisses greeted the prisoners and many cried at the two accused women:

"Have you a woman's heart?" Police prevented the relatives from attacking the prisoners.

One of the women is French and the other Swiss, George Nicolova, son of the Frenchwoman, and Perchomileff, an agitator, are charged with sheltering Friedman and other arch conspirators at the time authorities were seeking them following the bombing.

The men were brought into court with heavy chains dangling from their wrists and secured to their ankles. Two men were unfettered, but walked with downcast faces.

The court room was thronged with widows and orphans of the cathedral victims.

Evidence was brought out that the Frenchwomen had dressed injuries which the conspirator Friedman received. The prosecutor stressed this point in demanding the death penalty for all except the Frenchwoman's son, who is a minor.

It is the general belief that the trial will be short and that the adult prisoners will be executed at the same time as Friedman and his accomplices. They are already under death sentence.

Twenty widows and orphans have filed suits for damages against all of the accused, who, attorneys for the widows and orphans pointed out, "made a great show of their luxury, rich furniture and automobiles."

The court was said to be in possession of many receipts for money from the "Central Committee" which bear the notation "for services rendered."

Society Notes

Novelty Dancing at New Paltz.

The "balloon dance" was a feature of a recent society event in the Grange Hall at New Paltz, that made a tremendous hit among the socially elect who attended. Small, not too small, inflated rubber balloons were tied to the feet of the ladies and the game was to step on the balloons of someone else's partner and burst it without injury to the pedal extremities of the ladies.

Only one mishap is reported, but that is said to have been a very heavy one.

Why He Chose Singing

"I want my daughter to enter some kind of artistic education," said the father who had recently made his fortune. "I think I'll let her study singing."

"Going to the Devil"

"The Devil" was originally the name of a noted public house located at 2 First street, near Temple bar, in London. When the lawyers in the neighborhood went to dinner they were accustomed to hang out a sign on their doors, "Going to the Devil," so that those who wanted them might know where to find them.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

Federation to Center Efforts on Farmers' Tax Problems

Considering the taxes now paid by New York farmers unfair and disproportionate, members of the board of directors of the N. Y. State Farm Bureau federation, meeting in Syracuse last week, decided to give careful study to the tax situation and mobilize farm interests to secure the needed reductions.

Enos Lee, president of the federation appointed a committee of the board to direct the tax work and cooperate with H. C. McKenize, tax expert for the federation. This committee consists of Peter G. Ten Eyck of Albany, chairman; H. S. Fullager of Penn Yan, and H. R. Talmage of Riverhead.

The committee and Mr. McKenize will probably first make a careful study of property taxes now paid by New York farmers and comparative studies of taxes paid by other industrial groups. It is expected that the committee will confer with Prof. G. F. Warren of the department of farm management of the State College of Agriculture in formulating a tax program more suited to the earning capacity of the farmers of the state.

The federation presented a tax program to the last legislature which suggested the abolishing of the general property tax and federation representatives were assured that any tax reductions would be given to the property taxpayers. The failure to follow this program and the reduction granted income taxpayers have caused considerable dissatisfaction among farmers and their representatives.

The federation tax committee will report all its findings to farm bureau members and give them an opportunity to express their attitude on the present tax program. It is expected that some decisive action will be taken by farm groups during the summer, preparatory to a concerted move when the next legislature opens.

A. F. B. F. Reaffirms Its Tax Position
At a meeting of the executive committee of the American Farm Bureau federation held in Chicago recently the position of the national organization of farmers with regard to taxes was reaffirmed as follows:

1. Net income is the measure of ability to pay taxes for the support of the federal government.

We Guess She Always Knows It. A successful marriage is one where the wife is boss but doesn't know it.

There is one thing that every woman wants to know. That is—more.

WAR PIPE OF GENERAL MILES OWNED HERE.

Captain Frank W. Kraus of 47 Summer street is the owner of a large meerschaum pipe that was smoked by General Nelson A. Miles during the Civil War in the 60's. The pipe was given to Captain Kraus by Frederick Hess of New York fifteen years ago. It having been a present to Mr. Hess, who had been clerk for General Miles during the war while at the front. Mr. Hess, who in later life was for a long term of years head bookkeeper for the American News Company, was pensioned by the federal government for injury to his eyes by reason of working as personal clerk for General Miles by candle light in a tent on the battle fields. The bowl of the pipe is in the shape of a negro's head and face and is finely colored from being smoked.

Manufacturing Crayons

Crayons are made chiefly from chalk. The coloring matter is mixed in with the aid of water and is pulverized by means of triple rollers. This is dried to a certain consistency and fed into a machine which expels it in the form of a rod through a circular opening, the diameter of which equals that of a pastel or crayon. Cut to the requisite length, the crayons are set to dry on trays which are stacked in racks on steam-heated shelves. The process of making colors in the "cake" form differs from that employed for crayons. After being mixed and ground, the mass of color is carried to the drying rooms in pans. It is left in chambers of varying degrees of heat until the water has been evaporated, when the resulting dough is ready for kneading. The mixture is then fed through a machine, emerging in the form of a strip, pressed to about an eighth of an inch thick, which is cut into "cakes."—Family Herald.
